

Fall in love with the Old South,
its alleyways, gardens & history.
Time-travel through your lenses.

This workshop is designed for beginner, intermediate and advanced photographers. It is safe to say that you will have a chance to work your lenses from wide angle to macro telephoto - depending on where your creative vision takes you!

When you hear "Charleston," it's likely that your mind travels back in time to old plantations, cobblestone roads, grand homes with side porches and gardens tucked away to discover and enjoy. These are just some of the places we will visit during this workshop.

We'll visit Shem Creek to photograph the shrimp fleet as well as enjoy some local seafood for lunch. We'll photograph Sullivan Island Lighthouse along with Morris Island Lighthouse. We'll also explore the Battery on the waterfront of Charleston Harbor.

You'll learn to combine color and infrared photography workflow by seeing in color while visualizing in infrared. In the classroom you'll also learn to process for black/white conversions as a way to generate emotionally charged images.

General Schedule: Workshop begins on Thursday evening at 7:00 pm and ends at noon on Sunday. (Lodging, meals & transportation not included.)
